

Governor Sanders Prompts Licenses Review

Little Rock, Arkansas – Secretary Daryl Bassett announced on Thursday, January 12, 2023, all directors at the Arkansas Department of Labor and Licensing should begin an immediate review of licenses to look for any barriers to entry that applicants might experience and to compare what other states do with Arkansas' process.

"Governor Sanders has made it clear that she desires a cost-effective and efficient state government," Bassett said. "I intend to ensure Labor and Licensing meets her standards and greatly exceeds them."

Gregory Crow, Director of the Contractors Licensing Board, and Andrea Alford, Director of the Real Estate Commission, will lead a task force that will work with Secretary Bassett to compile a report of its findings which will then be delivered to Governor Sanders for her review and consideration.
